"It would be nice if they (the hotel) could give a list of suggestions for places to visit that contains not only the touristic spot, but a list of places curated by locals."

"I believe that what makes a place are the people. Looking at an inanimate object does not expand my horizons as much as listening to locals talk about their culture and norms and opinions."

"Meeting up locals could cut your planning time by 50 percent, so you might want to try it. There's nothing like locals showing you their town/country."
